

FOIAb3b

CPYRGHT

CIA to Political Science

Lyman B. Kirkpatrick Jr., executive director and controller of the Central Intelligence Agency, is leaving the CIA to teach political science at Brown University starting this fall. A university spokesman said that "plans are in the making for Mr. Kirkpatrick to teach a course . . . on the operational aspects of the Cold War . . . Mr. Kirkpatrick will draw on his extensive experience in the world of practice to complement the theoretical and scholarly approaches to political science."